SANTA CLARA SHERIFF AIDE SHOT TO DEATH

Second Rum Runner Is Captured At S. J., Third Escapes

Under guard today in the Mills Memorial Hospital in San Mateo, one of two hijackers sought for the murder in San Jose Wednesday of Deputy Sheriff H. W. McAuley, was given a fighting chance to live.

He gave the name of Spencer Griffith, 24, of Seattle.

In the San Jose Hospital, Deputy Sheriff Frank Saporito of Santa Clara county, wounded in a battle with the hijackers when his fellow deputy, McAuley, was shot down, is expected to die. He was shot through the abdomen and twice through the leg.

One rum runner, Fred L. Hopkins, 23, who claims he was kidnaped by two hijackers in San Leandro last night, was captured in the San Jose gun battle when shot through the leg and handcuffed by Saporito.

Hopkins, however, was definitely identified by Saporito today during a brief period in which he regained consciousness as the man who shot him. Hopkins was brought from the county jail to the hospital for the purpose of identification after Saporito named the "man I handcuffed" as the one who wounded him.

The third member of the booze car, who is thought to have been shot through the arm, escaped in Burlingame and was the object of a dragnet search in San Francisco and peninsula communities today.

Hopkins, telling his story to Sheriff William Emig in San Jose, said he and a second man named Edwards were running a load of alcohol from Oakland to Long Beach last night. They stopped in a service station in San Leandro, while Edwards went into a wash room. Three men drove up in another car, and two of them told Hopkins to move over and keep quiet.

They then drove off with him, he said. The third man in the other car drove off, and Edwards, coming out of the rest room, was told by a woman witness that his friend had been kidnaped and forced to drive away. Edwards then notified police.

When the trio arrived at San Jose, Deputies McAuley and Saporito were waiting for them.

Girls Witness Scene

Miss Alice Barker, 18, and her sister, Georgia, 13, of 828 North 13th street, San Jose, reported what happened from this point on, being eye-witnesses to the gun battle.

McAuley, they said, flashed a light on the big coupe and said:

"Have you got any alcohol there?"

The reply was, "No, we haven't."

One of the men, who later proved to be Hopkins, stepped from the car. The man at the wheel then opened fire on the officers. Six shots in all were fired, the girls reported, McAuley going down and Saporito crying out, "They got me in the stomach." But before they shot down Deputy Sheriff Saporito, he managed to handcuff Hopkins. The latter was found to have been wounded in the leg.

The two men then sped south toward Morgan Hill in the high-powered coupe. They halted at the farm house of Joseph Battaglia on the Monterey road, seeking aid for Griffith, who had been shot in the abdomen during the gun battle. This was refused and they doubled back to San Jose.

Peninsula Officers Help

Sheriff Emig spread the alarm, sending out the license number of the car as 9-E-1814. Officer E. A. Parr of the Palo Alto Police Department was the first to spot the car coming north on the state highway through Mayfield. He found the license should have read 9-S-1814.

In a light police car, he immediately gave chase, running close to, but unable to overtake the gunmen's car. On up the highway the two cars sped just after midnight, passing through Palo Alto, Menlo Park, Redwood City, Belmont and San Mateo.

During the chase, Officer Parr fired three or four shots at the fleeing bandits.

In San Mateo, Officers Robert O'Brien and Martin McDonnell of the San Mateo Police Department heard the roar of the chase and Parr's siren. They raced their machine to the intersection of Third avenue and the highway.

Parr spotted them, slowed up and shouted, "Get that car! Mine is too slow."

Without knowing for what reason the big Packard was wanted, the two San Mateo policemen took

WATER DISTRICT AFFAIRS PROBED BY PETITIONERS

BELMONT, Nov. 11.—Asking whether or not the Belmont County Water District is a paying proposition, a petition signed by 29 taxpayers and property owners was filed here last night with the water commission.

Louis C. Vannier acted as spokesman for the petitioners. Joseph Heartsner, president of the board, informed Vannier that through their aduitor, Vernon P. Irvin, a complete financial statement will be prepared and printed in the local newspaper for the information of all Belmont residents.

Alexander Morrison, member of the board, tendered his resignation because of ill health. On motion of Commissioner E. A. Elsner, seconded by Commissioner Daniel St. George, the board instructed the secretary to express regrets at Morrison's resignation, and to thank him for the services rendered the district.

Charles H. Davies of the Bayport Development Company conferred with Manager Elwood Curtiss of the water district relative to a pipe line serving stores on the Bayshore highway and the dredger, which he asked the district to take over. This was taken under advisement.

W. J. Marra, newly appointed member of the commission, was sworn in the Col. C. N. Kirkbride, legal adviser.

Manager Curtiss reported a loss of 41,900 cubic feet of water for October. Approximately 25,000 cubic feet were used, however, in construction of lower Ralston avenue, for which the county will be responsible.

City Engineer George A. Kneese was instructed to prepare specifications relative to the installation of 900 feet of eight-inch cast iron mains from the Old County Road to Schmall street. George DeGolis of Oakland was present and offered a rough estimate of $1850 for the installation. The eight-inch mains will replace four-inch mains, which are insufficient to give the proper pressure.

CAFE HOLDUP IN SAN BRUNO NETS TRIO $80

Restaurant Man, Wife And Waitress Are Victims Of Thugs

Armed, but unmasked, three bandits Wednesday obtained $80 in the holdup of three persons in the Bellevue Restaurant, 487 El Camino Real, San Bruno, according to a report telephoned to Sheriff James J. McGrath's office in Redwood City.

Frank Batmale, proprietor, his wife, and Miss Mary Favre, a waitress, were about to close the place and retire when two men entered the cafe shortly after midnight. While one commanded them to remain quiet, the other cut the telephone wires.

Batmale was ordered to give up the contents of the cash register and the money on his person, turning about $80 over to the bandits. They were then forced into an upstairs bedroom.

The two bandits then fled downstairs into a waiting black sedan where a third member of the gang sat, and sped away. Police Chief William Maher was informed, and expressed a belief the men were part of an eastern gang.

The men were described as young and well dressed.

FIRE IN PILLOW IS EXTINGUISHED

MENLO PARK, Nov. 12.—One of the tasks of a fire department is to prevent possible fires.

This was demonstrated by the Menlo Park Fire Department last evening when Mrs. E. C. Aldwell of Park lane called to express her doubts that a spark from a fire that had alighted in a pillow had really gone out. E. Hara of the Menlo Park company drove out and made sure there was no fire by dousing the pillow with fluid from a fire extinguisher.

Great Britain provides nearly half of India's supplies of iron and steel products.

CONTRACTS ON COUNTY JOBS ARE AWARDED

San Mateo Trustees Vote Quarters For Social Service

Three contracts totaling $5094 for work at the Beresford Community Hospital and for the temporary social service commission building in Redwood City were awarded by the San Mateo County Board of Supervisors Monday.

Ingard Sorensen, Burlingame, on a bid of $1870, was awarded the contract for the temporary social service quarters in Redwood City.

Van Fleet-Freer Company, San Francisco, was awarded a contract for $2880 for linoleum in the new wing of the hospital.

Dowd-Seid Company, San Francisco, was awarded the lighting contract for the new wing on a bid of $1344.

Bids of H. H. Larsen, San Mateo, and Joseph Bettencourt, San Bruno, for finishing the clinic at the Beresford hospital were held up for one week at the request of Will H. Toepke, county architect. Larsen's bid was $4783, and Bettencourt's $4530.

Committees Named

Chairman Manuel Francis named Supervisors T. L. Hickey, South San Francisco; John W. Poole, Redwood City, and Rosalie Brown, San Mateo, as a committee of three to study projects which the county might undertake in co-operation with the state this winter.

Chairman Francis also named a committee to confer with the hospitals on the ambulance charges filed a week ago, which Supervisor Hickey thought too high.

This committee consists of Dr. C. V. Thompson, Hickey and Poole.

MENLO PARK SETS COUNCIL HEARING ON ZONING CHANGE

MENLO PARK, Nov. 11.—Hearing on the final report of the city planning commission urging changes in the city's zoning ordinance was set for Friday evening, November 20, by the Menlo Park City Council at its meeting here last night.

Among the changes urged by the planning group are an amendment to permit the construction of a clubhouse in a residential district and slight modification in the building requirements in the business zone. The commission submitted its final report after a public hearing conducted by it.

Issuance of bonds to cover $12,768.30 in unpaid assessments on the recently completed street improvement work on Oak Grove avenue and other streets in the district east of the railroad tracks. The total cost of the work totaled approximately $22,000.

Councilman E. A. Blake presented a petition signed by a number of property owners on Live Oak avenue requesting that in the improvement work already ordered for that street the plans be changed to allow construction of the sidewalk directly next to the curb. Present plans allow for a parking space between the curb and the sidewalk.

City Attorney George K. Whitworth asserted that no changes could be made in the contract, which has already been approved, and suggested that those desiring the sidewalk to touch the curb should merely fill in the parking space. A. H. Tupper of Live Oak avenue disputed Councilman Blake's declaration that more than 50 per cent of the property owners desired the change. At a property owners' meeting before plans were drawn, he said, practically all favored the present arrangement. Councilman Blake indicated his belief that the only solution would be to take the matter to the superior court, but City Attorney Whitworth declared that there was no issue on which to go to law, as no protests had been received at the proper time and the contract had already been let.

Completion of G. N.-W. P. R. R. Link Commemorated In Golden Celebration

On Thursday last the eyes of the peninsula were on the proceedings at Bieber,, when the two big railroal lines were linked together for the development of Northern California, and particularly the peninsula.

The driving of the golden spike means much to the bay region and is important to Redwood City and vicinity. It means that shortly the peninsula will have two transcontinental railroads traversing its confines.

Just after the first of the coming year the Westren Pocific company proposes to begin the construction of its lines from Niles to Redwood City, from there to San Francisco. The Southern Pacific railroad bridge will be used by the company in crossing the bay. The terminal is to be at Redwood City. A depot is to be erected on the site of the Tacoma Mill property.

The coming of this railroad to the iounty, in competition to the Southern Pacific, should develop a boom, the like of which has never been experienced.

Development is certain to follow in the wake of the new railroad. Real estate values are sure to soar and a revival of business will be felt in this locality.

It is little wonder that the people of this section of the state looked with interest upon the linking of these two big railroads concerns. Over these railroads will come the raw material from the north and northwest to San Francisco and other points and be returned as manufactured products to be distributed at various points.

The completion of the Western Pocific-Great Northern line to the Golden Gate writes another chapter in the record of the pioneers. It changes the map of the West and its influence upon the development of the country, like that of the argonauts of the covered wagons and the dreamers of the first transcontinental rails, will be greater than even its builders can estimate.

The driving of a golden spike last Tuesday, marked the completion of the Califonia connection of the Westren Pacific and Great Northern Railways, accomplished by the extension of the Western Pacific from its main line at Keddie, Calif., a distance of 112 miles and the extension of the Great Northern from Klamath Falls, Oregon, a distance of 91 miles.

The spike-driving celebration was attended by a large aggregation of persons including prominent railroad executives from several states, who had traveled from distant points to witness an event which marks the completion of a new and competitive all rail route between California and its sister states of the Rockies.

Immediately after the ceremony a solid train of 100 cars loaded with Shevlin pine lumber from the forests of northern California and southern Oregon rolled over the rails of the new line, being the first movement of freight over the new route from the north.

The train comprised fifty cars loaded by the McCloud Lumber company at McCloud, and hauled over the line of ohe McCloud River Railroad Lookout, a junction point on the new rail extension, and the same number of cars from the mills of the Shevlin-Hixon cmpany, at Bend, Oregn.

At Keddie the train was divided int two sections, a portion being diverted for distribution throughout California, and the majority of the shipment proceeding east over the Western Pacific to Salt Lake City, and thence by the Denver and Rio Grande Western and its eastern Colorado connections to nearly every state in the Union north of the Ohio river.

Construction of this line opens up a new outlet for California lumber, it was stated by D. M. Swobe, president of the McCloud River Railroad.

Among the railroad officials participating in the celebration were: Arthur Curtiss James, chairman of the board of directors, Western Pacific; Thomas M. Schumacher, chairman of the executive committee, and Harry M. Adams, president, Western Pacific; Ralph Budd, president, Great Northern; J. S. Pyeatt, president, Denver and Rio Grande Western; F. E. Williamson, president, Burlington Railroad; J. Cannon, vice-president, Missouri Pacific; Fred B. Houghton, vice-president, Santa Fe System and others.

The golden spike used in the ceremony was presented by the citizens of Oroville, California, the precious metal coming from former historic and present-day mines, located along the trails of '49 in the vicinity of Oroville.

With the driving of the last spike to connect the new extensions of the Western Pacific and the Great Northern at their joint terminal at Bieber, California, November 10, there is now completed a new through competitive all-rail route between the Pacific Northwest and other territory served by the Great Northern Railway and its connections on the one hand, and California and the states south and east thereof, served by the Western Pacific and its connections on the other hand.

By means of a co-operative arrangement with the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe Railway, through rates, routes and service will be maintained via Stockton to and from territory in California, Arizona and New Mexico, served by that line.

The Western Pacific extension from Keddie to Bieber is 112 miles in length; that of the Great Northern from Klamath Falls to Bieber is 91 miles in length. The two railroads also have acquired and completed the construction of what is known as the McCloud Branch of 36 miles, extending from Lookout to Hambone, where a connection is made with the McCloud River Railroad.

The total cost of these railroad improvements in Northern California and Southern Oregon is approximately $14,500.00. This includes a sum slightly less than $10,000,000 which is the cost to the Western Pacific of constructing its 112-mile extension from Keddie to Bieber.

PARISH HOUSE AT SAN CARLOS HAS $500 FIRE LOSS

SAN CARLOS, Nov. 10.—Fire which caused damage to furnishings in the study on the second floor of the new parish house adjoining St. Charles Catholic Church threatened the entire structure early Monday before firemen extinguished the blaze. The loss was estimated at about $500.

Father L. Crampton was awakened at 2:30 this morning by smoke, which poured from the study. Awakening Father William Moran, whose bedroom was also on the second floor, Father Crampton attempted to beat out the fire, which was consuming a chesterfield, drapes and other pieces of furniture. Father Moran incurred a gash on one thumb in helping firemen.

The two priests had just moved into the parish house yesterday afternoon. The building was recently completed at a cost of $15,000.

Foresters Make Preparations For Masquerade Ball

Court Madrone, Foresters of America, is busy with preparations for its annual masquerade ball which is to be given in Foresters' Hall on Thanksgiving eve.

Directing arrangements for the affair is the social committee composed of Joseph Clarkin, Louis Rolla, Julian O'Neill and William Galonska.

NO MONEY SOUGHT FOR BUTANO NOW

No attempt will be made to raise money at this time for the acquisition of the Butano Forest in San Mateo county as a part of the state park system, it was stated Tuesday by Winfield Scott of Atherton, manager of the Calaveras Grove Association. Mr. Scott announced yesterday that an organization for securing of the forest would be formed this week-end, either in San Francisco or in San Jose.

"What we plan to do now," he said today, "is to build the machinery for acquiring the forest. We have four methods in view for raising the money, but that cannot be done until the organization is in shape." The plan, as outlined by Mr. Scott, involves the formation of a general committee of 50, of which supervisors of San Mateo, Santa Clara, Santa Cruz and San Francisco counties would be members, and an executive committee of 15, with one supervisor from each county in the personnel.

SPEEDING BRINGS 8-DAY SENTENCE

Howard Hoffman, 22, disputing the charge that he was speeding when arrested here recently, was found guilty in Police Judge Edward McAuliffe's court by a jury Monday.

He was given the choice between a $40 fine or an eight-day jail sentence and chose the latter.

EMPLOYMENT CONDITIONS LOOM BETTER

Looked-for Emergency Unlikely To Occur, Group Believes

Decision to hold in abeyance the plans to erect a shelter in San Mateo county to take care of transients and the unemployed workers was reached by the subcommittee on itinerants of the San Mateo County Employment Committee at a meeting held Tuesday afternoon in the courthouse.

It was felt by the majority of the committee that the "emergency" anticipated for the winter months has not as yet arrived and that the establishment of the shelter at this time would be unwise. It was also thought that employment conditions would improve as held-in-abeyance projects are undertaken.

The board of supervisors, at the request of Matthew A. Harris, Atherton, chairman of the employment group, voted the committee $1000 recently to start the shelter.

The situation in Menlo Park and the San Francisquito creek area in southern San Mateo county was said to have been relieved by the establishment of a shelter in Palo Alto, where the men are given work to earn their board and bunk.

Menlo Park has done considerable work for its unemployed; Atherton and Redwood City are taking steps to put the jobless residents to work, and San Mateo and Burlingame previously declared themselves able to cope with the itinerant problem.

A location half way between the Bayshore highway and Babylon, east of San Carlos, was discussed as most central for the shelter should it be established later.

Among those present yesterday besides Chairman Harris and Secretary Roscoe D. Wyatt were the following: Mayor D. R. Stafford, Redwood City; Mayor C. A. Buck, Burlingame; Mayor Chris Jordan, Belmont; Judge Jean B. Hoss, Menlo Park; J. F. Cambiano, representing the trades; Chief John J. Harper, Burlingame; Chief C L. Collins, Redwood City; Chief Edward Wheeler, San Carlos; Chief Frank Love, Menlo Park, and Deputy Sheriff C. A. Callaghan.

CITY EMPLOYES SIGN TO GIVE JOBLESS FUND

Mezes Plaza Work In Sight As Result Of Donations

Mezes Plaza, bounded by Standish, Howland, Warren and Allerton streets, is to be developed as a recreational center, and men now out of work will be given jobs there.

City employes are donating the money to pay for the work.

Completion of plans for this constructive piece of unemployment relief was announced today by City Manager E. A. Rolison, chairman of the City Employes' Emergency Contribution Fund committee. The other members of the committee are City Engineer C. L. Dimmitt, Fire Chief Mark Ryan, Superintendent of Parks George Hopkins and Chief Police C. L. Collins.

Practically all city employes on the payroll have signed an agreement authorizing the city treasurer to retain from their pay checks a sum equivalent to 3 1-3 per cent of same for a period of four months. It is estimated that approximately $1000 will be raised in this manner. The city councilmen are contributing $5 per month from their checks.

The fund will pay for a tennis court, playground baseball area, children's playground and turf suitable for picnic purposes. There is an acre and a half in the plaza. The work will be done under the supervision of the park superintendent and the city engineer.

The committee will co-operate with the mayor's general committee on unemployment in hiring labor for the Mezes Plaza project.

American investments abroad total $25,000,000,000.

ARMISTICE DAY PARADE IS HELD IN REDWOOD CITY

Marked by the colorful red, white and blue uniforms of the American Legion drum corps, and by the uniforms and regalia of other patriotic and fraternal organizations, Redwood City's Armistice Day parade was held shortly after noon Wednesday.

The marchers and autos passed along Broadway and Main street, and disbanded in front of the city hall on Middlefield road.

The drum corps and other groups went to Palo Alto for a parade before noon, and Palo Alto units, in turn, joined Redwood City's parade later. In the local parade were Legion members, Veterans of Foreign Wars, Spanish American War veterans, women's auxiliaries of the various groups, Moose, Knights of Pythias, Boy and Girl Scouts and the Sequoia high school band, in purple and white uniforms.

Interested spectators watched from the sidewalks, and saluted as the colors passed by.

SCHOOL BOARD TRUSTEES IN ANNUAL MEET

Teachers' Tenure And Other Laws Are Discussed

With some 50 school board members present representing all the districts of San Mateo county, the annual institute for school trustees was held in the courthouse in Redwood City Saturday.

Alfred Lentz, legal adviser to the California State Department of Education, spoke on changes in school laws which became effective on August 14. Pansy Jewett Abbott, county superintendent of schools, presided.

Lentz said the principal change in the teachers' tenure law is that in districts having an attendance of less than 850 daily, the tenure is made optional with the board. Any teacher having tenure who is employed by so small a district retains his or her permanent standing however, he said.

Teachers employed in that size district may gain permanent classification in the fourth year if the board takes affirmative action, but it does not come automatically, Lentz said. The board is not required to give all teachers the permanent classification if it should decide one or more deserve it, he said.

The new law advances the time of dismissal by the board of probationary teachers, setting the time of notification to June 15, instead of June 10. In the case of dismissal of permanent teachers, the law requires that the charges must be verified by the accuser, and the governing board can then decide whether to take action or not.

If the charges are of such a nature that a dismissal is deemed necessary, the board is to notify the teacher by May 15 of the school year, including the filing of a copy of the charges with the teacher. Unless he or she demands a hearing, the dismissal will become effective at the end of the school term.

The teacher has the right of appeal to the superintendent of public instruction, whose opinion is final, except by recourse to the courts.

Salary cuts of teachers was touched upon by a question asked by one of the trustees. Attorney Lentz said the salaries could be reduced by changing the teachers' duties, or a blanket reduction could be made over the district, but these changes can only be made at the beginning of a school year.

The requirement of teachers residing within the district in which he or she is employed is left up to the individual boards, but a teacher violating the rule is subject to dismissal.

Fuel Wanted For Stanford Grid Pyre

A. I. COFFEY, DESIGNER OF SCHOOLS, DIES

Well-Known Architect Of Redwood City Dies In S. F.

Alfred I. Coffey, designer of Redwood City's schools and a noted San Francisco architect, died last night at the St. Francis Hospital in San Francisco, following a stroke suffered some months ago at his home, 257 Arlington road. He died at 8:15 o'clock.

The son of the late John and Mary Coffey, he and the members of the Coffey family resided here for the most part since 1901, when the family home was established on the Woodside road near the golf course. He resided at the Arlington address for about eight years.

Mr. Coffey drew the plans for the Sequoia Union High School, the McKinley Elementary School, the new Eagle Hill School now under construction, the old Central school on Broadway, which was razed, and other school structures here.

He was a graduate of St. Mary's College and has practiced his profession since that time. His specialty was building schools and hospitals. He had charge of the additions to the San Francisco Hospital and was designing the new Cancer Hospital to be built in San Francisco under the health bond issue of two years ago.

Mr. Coffey was a brother of Dr. Walter B. Coffey, co-discoverer of the Coffey-Humber extract used in the treatment of cancer.

He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Gladys Coffey; a daughter, Gwendolyn Coffey; two sisters, the Misses Helen and Mary Coffey, and two brothers, Dr. Coffey and Louis J. Coffey.

Mr. Coffey was a native of San Francisco, aged 65 years.

D. E. O'Keefe, publisher of the Times-Gazette, was a classmate of Mr. Coffey at St. Mary's College, when that institution was located on the Mission Road, San Francisco, in the early 80's A strong friendship existed between the two men, a friendship gained in the class room. It was mainly through the efforts of O'Keefe that the deceased was made the architect of the Sequoia high school biulding, some years ago, when O'Keefe was secretary of the high school board.

Funeral services were to be held from the residence of Dr. Coffey, 2340 Vallejo street, San Francisco, at 9:30 o'clock today; thence to St. Vincent de Paul's Church on Steiner street.

HOUSEKEEPER IN LAWSUIT CHARGES SHE WAS EJECTED

Harold S. Anderson, wealthy Hillsborough contractor, was named defendant today in a $7500 damage suit filed by his housekeeper, Mary A. Palmer, following his alleged attempt last Friday to bodily eject her from the household.

The plaintiff alleges that Anderson grasped her by the right arm so severely that the arm and shoulder were wrenched; that the elbow was bruised and scratched, and her left ankle sprained, wrenched and strained.

She alleges that Anderson's wrath was kindled because last Thursday evening she permitted Anderson's three minor sons to have dinner at the appointed hour instead of waiting his arrival there for a short visit.

Mrs. Palmer left the room because of his "violent anger" and the following morning it is charged that he did "violently and maliciously assault the plaintiff and eject her bodily from said home."

She asks $5000 general, $2500 exemplary, $100 per month for her services as a housekeeper until able to take up new duties, and special damages. Mrs. Palmer is represented by Attorney F. E. Hoffman of San Mateo.

Anderson is said to be in Los Angeles, where he is sought on a telegraphic warrant charging battery.

"Lazy" Traits of Humans Is Also Found In Animals

The predominating trait of most human beings to "follow the path of least resistance" is not exclusively a human trait. There is positive proof that it is possessed by at least two species of animals, and there is indication that it is possessed by the whole animal kingdom, according to Dr. J. A. Gengerelli, instructor in psychology, of the University of California.

Dr. Gengerelli has been conducting for a number of months some interesting experiments with animals to ascertain whether they possess the inherent trait of following the path of least resistance. He began his experiments at Yale University before coming to the University of California at Los Angeles, starting first with white rats. He definitely established that white rats possess the trait. He is now experimenting with South American ringtail monkeys, and declares there is every reason to believe that these monkeys possess the same trait.

Not Due to Reasoning

The psychologist refuses to admit that this trait is due to the reasoning power of the animals he has tested. He points out that his investigations have not taken into consideration the reason why such traits are exhibited. Rather, his work has been to find out if such traits are possessed by the animals.

His means for proving this trait are unique. He uses a cage about 10 feet long by about four feet in width. Within this cage are four levers, or "triggers," all four of which have to be "sprung" before a trap-door at one end of the cage opens to admit the animal into another compartment where there is food. There are entrances to this cage on three sides. The animal may be admitted to the cage at either of the entrances.

Rats Learn Method

Dr. Gengerelli has found that the animal, once admitted to the cage, will not dash blindly to the closed door behind which the food is found. Instead it will dash to the closest "trigger," step on it, then dash to the next closest, and so on until all four triggers have been "sprung." Always, the "trigger" closest to the food door is the last one the animal will attack, evidently knowing that by so doing he is eliminating the waste of effort and time, and can dash directly from the last "trigger" into the food box.

"The problem facing the hungry animal," says Dr. Gengerelli, "is to open the door leading to the food box. This door can be opened only by pressing down four metal levers which are arranged one in each corner of the cage. When all the levers have been pressed, regardless of the order, the door to the food compartment automatically opens.

Monkeys Have Same Trait

"The animals learn to associate the opening of the food door with the pressing down of the levers very quickly, usually in six or seven trials. But with continued practice the monkeys proceed to press the levers in such an order as will make for the least work or effort.

"This manner of organizing their activity is quite in contrast with their behavior during the early trials, when they press the levers haphazardly. The animals show distinct personality traits, some being very impulsive, others quite deliberate. The latter are always the more successful in this type of problem."

Dr. Gengerelli explained that different types of food were used, and they are named below in accordance with the preference of the animals. Candy was the first choice, the others in their order being peanuts, bananas, apples and carrots.

POP'S COLUMN

The only time old Riley Rezidue of Possom Trot ever went to church, he went in a hearse. And that was the first time his wife had a new dress in 10 years.

When old Polk Bohnett died his wife went to heaven. She moved into a house with a wooden floor, and had a sho'-nuff bedstead with bedding.

Aunt Liza Renshaw said she reckoned she'd not have much trouble getting a divorce from her husband, Bill; but if she had to tell enough truth to get a divorce, Bill could get two divorces on the same testimony.

I passed by the Am Stargel home on Thanksgiving Day. Am and his oldest son, Jape, were drunk. They had been fighting. Looked to me like old Am had been getting all the worst of it. "Having you a lot of fun, Am?" I said, wanting to be sociable. "Well—um—some," Am said, after spitting out a mouthful of blood and a tooth or two. "Jape, hyur, is a-gettin' poorty good with his fistes. Knocks me down fatser'n I kin git up. But I still got it on him when't it comes to licker. I done bin takin' me two drinks to ever' one of his'n all day. Poorty durn good man yit, effen I do say it m'se'f!"

This isn't new, but I think it's kinda funny: Our neighbor, Sim Wiley, and two or three of his boys passed our house Saturday forenoon riding horses, going into town. Dad said: "Going into town, Mr. Wiley?" Wiley turned in to the fence and stopped a minute. "Ya-as,' he said, "me and th' boys is a-goin' into town to get on a big drunk, and Gawd! How I dread it!"

I wasn't so very old—nor brave—the first time I went to a dentist for professional services. He set me in that torture machine, tied a towel around my neck mighty tight, prid my mouth open mighty wide, held up a big pair of tongs in front of my face, and said: "Now which tooth is it that's aching you, son?" "Ick ack oke okker ock ack ide," I told him, plain as could be. So he pulled out a tooth with a lot of roots a foot long, and threw it on the floor, and told me to spit. Then when I got some better, I went on home. "Did he pull your tooth?" the family asked me very happily. "Yes," I said, "but he never pulled the one that was achin'." I complained. "For pity sakes! Didn't you tell him which one to pull?" they demanded. "'Course I told him! But he never paid no 'tention to what I said, and I supposed, him bein' a dentist, he ought to know best which'n to pull," I said. Wouldn't you think so?"

Friday afternoons in our school we all lined up in two rows along the wall and "spelled down." Friday before Christmas, when we were all standing up there, the teacher suddenly said: "All who want two weeks Christmas vacation, hold up your hands—high!" I didn't vote. "What's the matter with you, Milton?" the teacher said. Is it possible YOU don't want two weeks Christmas vacation?" "Yes'm," I said. "I want vacation, but I can't vote!" "Why can't you vote?" '"Cause my galluses is busted, and I gotta hang onto my pants!"

Old Clem Bradshaw of the Sunnyvale Standard must go to a hospital next week for a major surgical operation. His doctor thinks there is a malignant growth of about a galley and a half of last spring's poetry lodged at the base of his medulla oblongata. Either that, or the feller's got an aggravated case of botts.

I see it estimated somewhere that not less than six millions of people attended football games last Saturday, paying all the way from 50 cents to $3 each for admission. If it were not for this awful depression there probably would have been a couple hundred more who might have attended the games.

If Ramsay McDonald were an American, as he is an Englishman (of Scotch birth), what a candidate he would make for president!

Speaking of Englishmen, what a wonderful race they are, those Englishmen of Scotch, Irish and Welsh birth and descent. Ye canna beat them! The sun will never set upon British soil as long as there is a dollar in America that can be borrowed.

This feller Crail, that wants to go to congress, or the United States Senate, or something—he's breaking my heart with all the letters he is writing me! I can't bear to read his pleadings! I never open the letters! This is a hard world!

Will Rogers is about the only feller I know of that gets good money for writing bad English for the newspapers. If he used better grammar nobody would read his stuff.

I had a little shepherd dog once and I called him Prince. One day I put him up on a horse to give him a ride. He fell off and yelped so loud they heard him four miles. After that we called him the Prince of Wails.

I used to think I could speak some French. One day I met a Frenchman and talked to him in his own language for half an hour, and he couldn't understand a word I said. Some foreigners are just naturally dumb, I reckon.

I was at home alone one Saturday afternoon and our neighbor, Sam Hert, came over and brought his axe, and said: "Sonney, kin I borry y'all's grindstone fer to sharpen my axe?" I said sure he could. Then he said: "Now, effen you'll turn the handle, I'll learn you how to sharpen a axe." So I turned the handle of the grindstone about an hour, and then he said: "Well, she hain't so overly sharp, but I reckon she'll do. Now, sonney, effen you'll run and fetch me a couple a twists of your pa's terbaccer, we'll call it square." So I fetched him the tobacco, and he called it square. Sam always was a good-hearted sort of a feller, though.

The first pickled olives I ever ate was a long time ago, when I was still working on my first million; and do you know, it was the longest time before anybody could make me believe they had been fixed that way on purpose?

When my children were little tads running around, they seemed to think right well of me; but they don't now. I reckon since they found out about Santa Claus, and few other little things, they consider they are very gracious to tolerate me at all. And I suppose they are, at that.

I think it is simply terrible the way young folks carry on at Hallowe'en, tearing things around and—but oh, gee! what a lot of fun I used to have at Hallowe'en! I remember one time we took old Mr. Atkinson's buggy and — but there, there! The old days will never come back again for me! Go to it, kids! Raise Cain while the raising is good!

There were lots of little niggers in the place where I was, what you might call, raised. Two of them came by our house one day when mother was making doughnuts, and she gave each one a couple. The larger boy gulped his down very fast, but the smaller boy looked at his, and big tears began to fall from his eyes. "Why doesn't your little brother eat his doughnuts?" mother said. "Doesn't he like them?" "Yassum," the larger boy said. "He sho do like um, but he cain't eat um now, cuz us gwine fishin', an' he packin' de bait in he mouf." My mother was horrified, hoping these few lines may find you all the same.

UP AND DOWN THE STATE

DOLLY'S MAIN STREET COMPLEX

Dolly Gann says: "I am hopelessly Main Street and what's more, I like it." She tells the reporters that Washington is too large for her, that she has lived nearly all her life in a town small enough for nearly everybody to know nearly everybody else—and that she likes, too.

But Dolly, whom Washington has learned after much embarrassing experience to address on invitation cards as Mrs. Edward Everett Gann, doesn't mean what she is saying. She is simply homesick for the wide open spaces of Kansas, and perchance a bit fed up with the routine of attending one formal dinner after another.

Dolly is not "Main Street." Those from Main Street do not care whether they sit at the head of the table, or at the right, the left or opposite their host or hostess. "Main Street" takes pot-luck with friends, is not too particular about formalities and is far more interested in being good-natured and absorbing good nature than in holding up a dinner—when the soup's on!—to haggle over who shall go in first and who shall get in when he can.

Main Street is anathema to Dolly: In the inelegant words of the cow country she is talking through her Empress Eugenie—Santa Barbara News.

THE NAVY LEAGUE ATTACK

William Howard Gardiner, president of the Navy League, has made an intemperate and ill-advised attack upon President Hoover's naval policies which, in its reaction, is likely to damage seriously the navy and its prospects. In effect, Gardiner accuses the administration of being less than frank in its dealings with the public, and of dealing in subterfuges unworthy of the presidential office. On its face, such a charge does not carry credence; public confidence in the president is too great for that.

But at the same time Gardiner lays himself open to the same charge, since he declares, and emphasizes by repeating, that the Navy League is "an organization of civilians." Technically, this may be correct, if a retired naval officer is a civilian, as perhaps he is legally; and that the membership of the Navy League is, or at least has been, in large part of retired naval officers, is known to everybody, and they do not regard retired officers as wholly civilian in character.

On the other hand, if the Navy League is now composed exclusively or largely of genuine civilians, that means that the retired naval officers must have left its membership. To admit that this is the case would not improve its standing.

That the character of the Navy League has changed somewhat appears to be the fact, especially since Gardiner became its president. When founded it was a highly patriotic and useful organization, interested in the upbuilding of the navy at a time when such upbuilding was important for national safety. Of late months it has seemed to be turned into a propaganda machine for shipbuilding interests.

Such matters aside, the arguments of Gardiner do not appear impressive. He declares the navy is in danger of falling behind its treaty ratios. There is no official basis for this fear, but, if there were, it would not be reason for alarm. We do not need to build against Great Britain, nor is there anything in the offing which indicates a possible conflict with Japan. Unless the Japanese Navy was overwhelmingly superior, it would not attempt an attack upon the Pacific coast, handicapped as it is by distance. Unless the United States needs a navy capable of waging a war of aggression, and it does not, the Gardiner argument is not strong.

President Hoover, unquestionably has better sources of information than has the Navy League, and has a greater responsibility. His belief that it is safe to economize, temporarily at least, by cutting navy appropriations, can safely be assumed not to be snap judgment, but to be based on careful examination of all the facts, together with expert opinion. He may be mistaken, but only the future can prove that he is. It can not be shown offhand, as the Navy League attempts to do.

Nor is there any excuse for the petulance Gardiner exhibits. He very nearly puts himself out of court by a display of bad temper.—Los Angeles Times.

WRITING UP A WEDDING

Most newspaper men shrink from the task of writing up a wedding and prefer to pass that responsible duty to the female society editor. Yet there are exceptions. Occasionally an editor is found who can paint a word picture of nuptial events that any lady reporter might envy.

We just discover one like that who appears to be hiding his great talents in an obscure Kansas town, while he ought to be holding down a great city job. Here is a sample of his literary ability, which proves our point:

"It was a wonderful wedding. The girl was as sweet as any girl who ever lived; but modern. As she walked up the aisle on her father's arm, her lips slightly tilted at the corners with a happy smile, she was a picture of modest beauty. Her filmy wedding gown and gossamer veil floated around her fair blond head like a halo. She was as nearly an angel as girls get to be in this world. At the altar as she passed from her father, the man she always loved, to the other man to whom she would devote the rest of her life, her dainty slipper touched a potted lily resting on the floor and turned it over. Smiling again, she turned to the dear old pastor waiting at the chancel and said: 'That was a hell of a place to put a lily'."—Chico Record.

THE DANGER GROWS

While the League of Nations Council takes a recess and the United States government looks the other way, Japan pushes her army deeper into Manchuria in defiance of treaties and justice. However good the intentions of the league and of the state department may be, it is increasingly clear that their halting diplomacy is inadequate.

We do not believe that the league as such, or the anti-war and nine-power treaties have failed. The peace machinery of the league covenant and the non-league treaties has not even been tried. With extreme caution Geneva and Washington have preferred to talk vaguely about that world peace machinery without actually putting it into operation.

It was the sincere hope that Japan would withdraw her army of invasion, provided the league and the United States did not anger her by direct interference or by siding with her victim, China.

That hope is gone. More than a month has passed since the Tokio government announced that it had begun evacuation. More than 10 days have passed since the league council asked Japan to withdraw troops, and then recessed with the tacit understanding that Japan would do so provided she was not forced."

But, instead, Japan is extending her military lines hundreds of miles beyond Mukden and digging in, apparently for permanent occupation. Japan has now advanced so far that not only China but Russia also is threatened.

The international danger is great. The time has come for the league and the United States to give Japan the choice of submitting the dispute to neutral investigation and settlement or of facing the world as a treaty outlaw.

The destiny of Manchuria may not be important to all the world. But the preservation of world peace is.—San Francisco News.

OLD CARMEL FEUD

The recrudescence of the dispute between the Chamber of Commerce group and the art group in Carmel brings out dramatically a feud that rages more or less mildly in every American town.

As in any controversy where parties form, there is much overlapping. Some artists and writers are crazier over the almighty dollar than are most business men—in fact, they are business men in disguise. Some business men, on the other hand, are more genuinely interested in esthetic matters than are many artists and writers.

At many gatherings of writers and artists, about the only subject of conversation is the going price of short stories and paintings. At many meetings of business men, here and there will be found groups discussing Japanese prints or Greek poetry.

But the partisan spirit is a necessary nuisance in this as in other matters. It stirs up the animals—and the animals are all of us.—San Francisco Examiner.

HISTORY'S WONDER

The most astounding thing about human history is that mankind has made any progress at all in the arts of peace. Wars have succeeded wars before the people have recovered from the last one, and to hope for universal lasting peace seems like bucking the truths of mathematics. Apparently warlike equipment is as necessary as food and drink, and it seems it won't do to let one people or nation overrun the earth in the hope that when it once is settled and all under one power there will be peace, for the most peaceable of folks occasionally fight among themselves. Our army and navy expenditures must be looked upon as a form of insurance, with the knowledge that sometime there may be a loss and the company will not pay. But it is the best we can do.—Gridley Herald.

SWING ANNOUNCES

The candidacy of Phil Swing, added to the already rather numerous race for the U. S. senatorship to succeed Shortridge next year, is to be welcomed. It will at least come much nearer to offering an opportunity to the voters of California to pick the kind of senator that will do them credit.

Possibly there will be even more candidates. And quite possibly there will be some pleasing eliminations from the candidacies that are already offered.

One thing that should be noted in this contest. It is a fight for the Republican nomination, not for the election. As such, there will be no "squeezeout" by minor candidates. Then man who gets the plurality, even if not a majority of votes, will be nominated.

The only opportunity for political surprises, in a thing like this, is to have a mass movement of supporters of the losing candidates, voting for the nominee of the minor party; which is possible, but unlikely in California.

Disregarding, if it is possible to disregard it, all question of present incumbency, it is only politically fair that one of the members of the Senate should come from the more southern portion of the state. As it is, both are from around San Francisco bay.

This not as a matter of political favor. Both our present senators are anxious enough, especially in campaign years, to "favor" Los Angeles. The rather, it is a question of there being a senator with a different viewpoint in his workaday attitude toward California problems; not an attitude determined by the political bargains he makes or the political tactics he adopts.—Fresno Republican.

PHYSICIAN, HEAL THYSELF!

The Aga Khan, immensely wealthy Indian Mohammedan potentate and high priest, says if he were world dictator he would put an end to overdressing and overeating. Does he practice what he preaches?

A glance at a photograph of the Aga Khan leading in one of his winning nags on an English race track shows an overample form fitted into the ultra fashionable habiliments of a European sporting gentleman.

Plainly the Aga Khan has never known a stinted moment. He would do for a statue of Good Living or make an admirable illustration for the page on which Chaucer says:

In his house it snowed meat and drink.

As his London audience was an exceedingly well-bred one it probably did not snicker when the portly Bombay billionaire uttered his blast against overeating. Yet it must have thought at that moment of the pinched form of that other Indian, the Mahatma Gandhi.

But if Gandhi has converted the Aga Khan then alas for Bond street tailors and Parisian caterers!—San Francisco Chronicle.

Those Handsome Movie Actors

Six American actors and six foreign actors have been picked as the handsomest among the male stars of the screen in a contest sponsored by Picture Play magazine to determine how far the invasion of foreign stars into Hollywood is a menace to home-grown talent. The choice lies with the motion picture public, but here are the leading entries for popular favor, the runners-up, and some critical comment about others. Clark Gable, popular idol of the moment, is not given rating.

Selected as the six most handsome Americans: Duncan Renaldo (handsomest of all), Buddy Rogers, Lew Ayres, Don Alvarado, Robert Montgomery and Neil Hamilton.

Selected as the six most handsome foreign-born actors: Walter Byron (handsomest of all), and Ralph Forbes, English; David Manners, Canadian; Nils Asther, Swedish; Victor Varconi, Hungarian; and Ramon Novarro, Mexican.

American runners-up, classified as "good looking," are: John Gilbert, William Haines, Conrad Nagel, Gary Cooper, Robert Armstrong, John Boles, Phillips Holmes, Fredric March, John Mack Brown, Richard Dix, Richard Arlen, Charles Farrell, Chester Morris—thirteen.

Foreigners in the good-looking class: Ronald Colman, Reginald Denny, Clive Brook and Leslie Fenton, English; Walter Pidgeon, Canadian; Paul Lukas, Hungarian; Barry Norton, South American; Nick Stuart, Rumanian; Maurice Chevalier, French; Ricardo Cortez, Alsatian; Ivan Lebedeff, Russian; Paul Muni, Austrian; the late Rudolph Valentino, Italian; George Lewis and Gilbert Roland, Mexican—fifteen.

Rather than outstanding good looks, the following are rated as having "individuality": Douglas Fairbanks Jr., Edmund Lowe, Lawrence Tibbett, Richard Barthelmess, Adolphe Menjou and William Powell, all Americans; and Antony Bushell and Victor McLaglen, English; and Walter Huston, Canadian.

Discussing Valentino's widely debated qualifications, Picture Play says: "Valentino had a beautiful body, but several slight though definite irregularities of his features contradicted the handsomeness which he was commonly supposed to possess.

"Gary Cooper's face is marred by a certain gauntness and angularity; Richard Dix literally loses by a nose; Dick Arlen's face is too heavy about the jaws; Charlie Farrell's awkward carriage detracts; William Haine's head is too large and his forehead too high; Conrad Nagel looks a little anaemic; Bob Armstrong is too short and his hair is thin; Phillips Holmes is too thin and Fredric March just misses—the lower part of his face is not quite adequate.

"Ronald Colman has a too-generous mouth and is too slight; the back of Reginald Denny's head is flat, and Gilbert Roland's is perpendicular; Chevalier has an ill-formed under-lip."

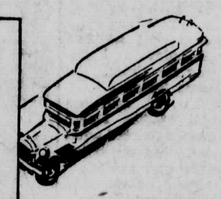
BUILDERS OF CALIFORNIA

5 of the 8 largest MOTOR BUS TRANSPORTATION COMPANIES in California are depositors in Bank of America



"Around the world" five times each day!

Every twenty-four hours, California motor buses travel 128,000 miles—more than five times the distance around the earth.

To serve travelers, California companies operate 2,000 buses! Their total investment in equipment and facilities exceeds 25 million dollars . . . These companies pay a substantial amount of the state gasoline tax.

With their network of routes throughout California, large companies effect important economies by using Bank of America's statewide facilities.

Hundreds of ticket agents daily deposit funds at convenient branches. These funds are transferred immediately to any desired point.

Time and interest are saved; bookkeeping is greatly simplified.

Passing through the Bank, these funds return to California communities in payment of operating expenses — wages, rents, insurance, taxes, and the many supplies required by this widespread business.

Hundreds of thousands of savings and commercial depositors choose Bank of America for the same reasons — convenience, helpful service and security.

WELL KNOWN SOCIAL WORKER TO SPEND WINTER IN R. C.

MRS. GRACE CAMPBELL, who has come from Oklahoma City, Okla., to pass the winter with her sister, Mrs. Alfred Whiting, and Mr. Whiting, in Redwood City, possesses the distinction of being not only the foremost social worker in her state, but of being the only woman member of the state old age pension board, and also the only woman on the state relief committee appointed by Gov. W. H. ("Alfalfa Bill") Murray. She has in addition organized the Big Sisters in Oklahoma City, an organization for underprivileged girls, and before coming to the coast, directed a survey of all the charity lists in the state.

Mrs. Campbell is a distinctly modern type, gracious, sympathetic, with a keen insight into the foibles of human nature, and and unusual understanding of youthful delinquency and the causes thereof. Her experiences as superintendent of the public welfare board of Oklahoma City, led to her statement, that a trial separation should precede every divorce, which became famous in the state.

For eight years and a half, Mrs. Campbell was director of the board, and resigned to study law at the Capitol City Law School. She plans to continue her studies in California, and will specialize in criminal law with the goal of being in charge of the court of domestic relations in her own city.

Mrs. Campbell's policy is crime prevention by home rehabilitation. She believes firmly in the regeneration of the first offender and in parole under supervision. Long paroles and short sentences are corrective rather than punitive, and punishment is not so much needed as correction, she claims.

For eleven years Mrs. Campbell has pursued her work, which she took up following the tragic death of one of her daughters in an airplane crash. She is a sociology and criminology student, and has handled thousands of cases of juvenile delinquency.

Neal Taylor, and Miss Florence Bellis.

NEW HIGHWAY TO BE OPENED TO PALO ALTO

The Bayshore highway subway under the Southern Pacific's Dumbarton bridge line will be open for Big Game traffic on November 21.

Assurance of this was definitely given today by G. W. Thompson of the bridge department of the state highway commission. High test cement is being used in paving the roadway of the subway by Barrett and Hilp, the contractors according to Thompson. The underpass has been completed with the exception of the pavement.

The entire Bayshore highway from Redwood City to Willow road will be opened the day of the Big Game. No definite decision has yet been made over the routing of traffic from the end of the Bayshore to the Stanford Stadium, although both Willow road and University avenue will probably be used, according to Thompson.

V. P. I. and William and Mary football teams met this fall for the eighth time since 1904.

Pastor Marozik will deliver a sermon, based on Mark 8:34-38, the subject of which will be: "The 'Supreme Tragedy' — Gaining the World and Losing the Soul." The pastor states: "National Education Week is being observed at the present time. We all concede that knowledge is power. The Word of God says, 'Happy is the man that findeth wisdom,' (Prov. 3:13-18), and, 'Wisdom is the princpal thing; therefore get wisdom,' (4, 7). America today is spending some four or five billion dollars a year for educational purposes. And we daily reap the fruits of our investment in numberless evidences of progress, marvelous inventions, time and labor-saving devices. But though secular knowledge has the power to plan, build, create, conquer, ought it to be the height of human ambition? To go a step farther, ought gaining the riches of this earth, draining the cup of temporal pleasure, winning the fleeting approval of men, be our highest ambition? The answer will be given in the sermon Sunday morning. You are invited to hear it!"

REV. J. E. MAROZIK,
Pastor.

TRACTS RESERVED FOR VALLEY QUAIL

California valley quail are certainly getting a very fair opportunity to demonstrate their abilities as field managers under present modern conditions, according to a report from the State Division of Fish and Game.

In making advanced studies on the life habits of this excellent upland game bird the division has established two tracts of land in San Diego county where conditions affecting the valley quail will be observed for the next few years by research workers.

One tract of land remains practically undisturbed, according to the plan, and the birds are allowed to proceed under natural conditions. Outside of the elimination of hunting, very little effort will be made to promote the welfare of the quail in this section, except the addition of better water and food conditions.

On the other tract of land everything is being done to protect and assist the birds in the affairs of life. Known predators are studied and eliminated, if deleterious, and watering facilities are undergoing development

A comparison of the results from the two tracts will produce valuable information. The studies will include, among many other factors, the relationship between hawks, coyotes, skunks and other alleged predators and quail; relationship between rodents and upland game birds, especially the effect of the small mammals on seed bearing food supplies and the seasonal habits of the birds under various natural conditions

This experimental work in the field is conducted under the supervision of Paul Radir, from the bureau of refuges. He is assisted by Alan MacKean.

Radir is making surveys of the land and is constantly checking the bird and animal population, according to his report. Observation stations are located at every point of vantage. He said that the investigation will take at least four or five years before real definite conclusions can be determined.

Officials of the Division of Fish and Game said that the exceedingly important work was launched to learn if proper game management could be developed in the field without depending entirely on the planting stock produced at the state game farms.

Federal funds amounting to $1,240,608 will be made available to 32 states and territories from the receipts of sales from national forests during the fiscal year ending June 30, 1931.

VIKING TEAM SCORES FLUKE TOUCHDOWN IN THIRD PERIOD

By EL THOMAS

Palo Alto again upset Sequoia high school's chances for its first Peninsula Athletic League football championship by fighting to an earned 7 to 0 victory before 5,000 grid fans gathered at the Palo Alto field Wednesday afternoon for the annual "big game."

It was just three years ago that Coach "Hod" Ray's Vikings robbed another potential Sequoia championship eleven of their laurels, and yesterday's win caused Coach Ray to prance about the field after the game because Palo Alto has a chance to enter a three-way tie with Sequoia and Burlingame for the title. Burlingame's 7-0 victory over San Mateo gave the Panthers a tie with Sequoia, and Palo Alto must defeat San Jose a week from Friday in order to enter the charmed circle.

Palo Alto played heads-up football all the way, the Viking line outcharged the Cherokees consistently, and toward the end of the third quarter Palo Alto scored the touchdown that decided one of the wierdest battles that has ever gone under the name of a "big game."

P. A. Score Legitimate

There was no fluke about Palo Alto's touchdown, although it was scored in an unusual manner. Held for three downs on Sequoia's 40-yard line, Capt. Walter Back of Palo Alto sent a high short kick intended to go out of bounds. It was well judged, bouncing on the 10-yard line and rolling slowly toward the goal line with Hansen, Palo Alto end, ready to down it. When the ball was within the six-inch mark Charlie Preston, Sequoia safety man, decided to block Hansen out to let the ball roll over the line for a touchback, but in so doing touched the ball and bounced it into the end zone. "Red" Keplinger, Palo Alto center, fell on the ball for a touchdown and Back place kicked the extra point.

Shortly afterward Sequoia recovered a Palo Alto lateral pass on Palo Alto's 12-yard line. Bob Steiner, who had replaced Roland Craven at fullback, made five yards and was held for no gain on the next play. On the third down, Quarterback Eno Ferrando fumbled and Palo Alto recovered to stop the scoring threat.

Passers Rushed

Sequoia's attempts to score on long passes were consistently broken up, chiefly because the passer was rushed off his feet every time. McQuilkin sent a long one to LeRoy that was dropped, and Lewis passed another to Bugge, also incomplete.

Back of Palo Alto was more leisurely in his passing and nearly completed a good throw to Sebring two plays before the half ended. Sebring muffed the ball on Sequoia's one-yard line. Another pass on the next play was intercepted by Ken Hinchman, Sequoia substitute halfback, who ran 50 yards to the Palo Alto 30-yard line as the gun announced half time.

The game was replete with fumbles on both sides, Sequoia making eight and Palo Alto six. Preston put Sequoia in a hole with a fumble on his own 15-yard line early in the game but came right back to pick up two fumbled punts by Palo Alto on consecutive kicks. The uncertainty of which team would possess the ball after every punt spiced up the game.

Sequoia Overconfident

Evidently sure that the championship was in the bag before the opening kick-off, the Cherokees allowed themselves to be outplayed all the way. Their runners were thrown for losses. On defense they were outsmarted by Palo Alto, with the result that the Vikings ran up 11 first downs to two for Sequoia.

Coach Leonard Casanova was disgusted with the spiritless performance of the Cherokees. "I would rather see the team lose by 40 points if it showed any fight, than to see it come close without trying."

His attitude is shared by Sequoia alumni who for the past 20 years have waited for the Cherokees to do something in a football way. The Sequoia eleven has an opportunity to redeem itself against Bellarmine Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock on the Sequoia turf in a game that means more to the community in the way of service than would a Peninsula Athletic League title. Proceeds will go toward Redwood City's employment relief fund.

Panthers In 7 To 0 Win From San Mateo

Burlingame clinched a tie with Sequoia for first place in the Peninsula Athletic League football race Wednesday afternoon with a 7 to 0 win over San Mateo in the annual contest at Burlingame.

After being outplayed by a determined bunch of San Mateans for most of the first half, the Panthers scored their touchdown in the second quarter on a lateral pass good for 18 yards from Watts to Gordon. The play came after Gordon's attempted field goal had failed and Burlingame recovered Dan O'Neill's fumble when the ball was brought out to the San Mateo 20-yard line. Gordon kicked the extra point.

Before the half ended, San Mateo carried the ball from its own 40-yard line to Burlingame's 10 and lost the ball on downs. A third-period drive by San Mateo from its own 25-yard line ended when Boyce of Burlingame recovered a fumble by Capt. Wagner Jorgensen of San Mateo on the Panther 12-yard line. San Mateo chalked up 11 first downs to four for Burlingame, with Jorgensen performing in a triple threat role.

WORLD'S CHAMP?

LONDON. — When Lewis Clarke was small, he was so puny and ill that he was unable to attend school. Through a system of exercise he has built himself up so that now, at 16, he is considered the strongest youth of his age in the world. He can break nails with his fingers, drive a six-inch nail through a plank with his hand, and can support a heavy anvil on his chest while someone pounds it with a sledge hammer.

Menlo Park

The city council met in regular session Tuesday night.

Blake brought up the important question of sidewalks along Live Oak avenue. He made the statement that the thorougsfare would soon be a business center. He contended that the sidewalks should be constructed to the curb. Mr. Tupper, who also lives on the street, vehemently opposed the proposition. As the plans and specifications are already adopted for the work, a change could not be made at this time. Blake intimated that he may carry the matter into court.

The council accepted the report of the planning commission urging amendments to the zoning and the building ordinances, and fixing this evening as the time for hearing of protests. If none appear, the laws will be amended as suggested by the commission.

A resolution was adopted accepting the use of the P. G. & E company's poles on Santa Cruz avenue, for wires used in operating the traffic signals and relievnig the company of all responsibility in case of accidents.

Issuance of bonds to cover $12,768.30 in unpaid assessments on the recently completed street improvement work on Oak Grove avenue and other streets in the district east of the railroad tracks. The total cots of the work is approximately $22,000.

Mrs. V. Marentette was here last week from Canada, on a visit to her daughters who are nuns in the cloister at Corpus Christi Monastery. This was her first visit to California and naturally she was delighted with the community.

Two automobiles were badly damaged, but no one was injured, in a collision at the intersection of the highway and Santa Cruz avenue here, at about 8 o'clock Tuesday morning.

The cars were driven by W. J. Losh, 151 Sycamore street, San Mateo, and William Germain of Menlo Park.

The many friends of Mrs. Anderson, the charming wife of Councilman Anderson, will be pleased to know that she is rapidly recovering from a very serious illness and will shortly be convalescent.

Menlo Parlor N. S. G. W., on Thursday evening, last, initiated two new members, the initiatory team putting on the impressive work in a manner that brought favorable comment from the members. After the business of the session was completed, a banquet was given in honor of the two full-fledged native sons. Last evening twenty members of Santa Clara Parlor visited the local organization.

At a meeting of the unemployed committee, last Friday evening, a final report was read by Peter Bush, concerning the proceeds of the garden party, recently held at the estate of Mr. Bush. The net proceeds were $140.26 in cash; $20.30 in merchandise left over, or a total of $166.56. Mr. Bush, in a well-phrased report, paid a beautiful tribute to all those who aided in making the affair a success.

Mrs. Dwyer, wife of Officer Dwyer, said that certain children at the grammar school were given their lunches through the generosity of several ladies in the district.

Mr. and Mrs. P. J. Kearney celebrated their twenty-fifth anniversary of their marriage, last Sunday, by giving a dinner to a few friends in honor of the happy occasion. They were the recipients of many congratulations and presents from their numerous friends in Menlo Park. The pair was married at Ocean View, twenty-five years ago. Mr. and Mrs. Kearney came to Menlo Park shortly afterwards and have resided here ever since.

The Mothers' Club of Menlo Park will hold a turkey whist party in the parish hall of the Church of the Nativity, on Monday evening, November 23. This hall has recently been renovated and improved. A heating system has been installed, so that those attending the party will be in comfortable quarters. The hall is now the cosiest in town. Come and secure a corn fed gobbler with wattles hanging down to his toes. Admission 50 cents.

A food sale is to be held tomorrow in the Murray block, close to the postoffice, under the auspices of the National Council of Catholic Women. This is an annual affair and is looked forward to by those seeking splendd home cooked food. Turkeys are also to be offered for sale. Dont' forget the date, Saturday, November 14. A number of charming young ladies in white will offer the cakes and pies for sale.

Woodside

The glitter of the silver moon has not entirely superceded the glamor of the footlights and Woodside is agog over the dramatic treat to be offered at the Woodside Hall on next Wednesday night, the 18th.

It is true, that the larger road companies have been "passig up" Woodside for the past few months, but that is doubtless due to professional jealousy of our local talent. We need have no envy for New York, while the local Parent-Teacher Association boasts so many members filled to overflowing with histrionic ability. Two plays (not by Shakespeare this time) will be given for the price of one.

The first, etitled "The Man Upstairs," will present those sterling actors and actresses, Mr. and Mrs. James Wilkie, Mr. and Mrs. Leland John and Mrs. Stoh.

The second, entitled "Thursday," (although, mind you, it will be given on Wednesday), like unto the first in the magnificence and splendor of its production, will star that great quartet of tragedy queens, Annie Langley, Besnit Patterson, Anna Duzanica and Alda Silva.

Assistant Fire Chief John Volpiano has been ill at his home for the past week. It was at first feared that he was in for a serious illness but late reports show tnat se is mending rapidly and will soon be back at his post in the fire house. The annual banquet of the fire department, postponed because of his sickness, will now be given a new date.

The Portola Social Club, at its meeting last week, voted to give a hard times or costume dance. The diuble title was given in order to cater to all kinds of people. If there are those who feel that the times are hard, they are admonished to come in their direst raiment, those who find nothing hard in the present times, may come dressed as Beau Brummel or the Queen of Sheba.

Samuel Pond and family returned to their San Francisco home this week. Before leaving, Miss Barbara Pond gave a party to a large number of her friends living on the peninsula.

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Swinnerton annohnced their intention of remaining at their home here for the winter.

The William Langley property on the Canyada Road has recently been sold to Joseph Giampietro, who, with his family, has been living for several years at the Perpoli place. The Perpolis are expected to return from New Almaden to their home here within the next few weeks.

Alumni of the Woodside School met the alumni of Las Lomitas School in a football game, at the local school grounds on Wednesday, and won the game with a score of 24 to 18.

MILK COMPANY SUED

The Dairy Delivery Company and one of its drivers, H. Sunderman, were named defendants today in a $15,000 lawsuit brought by Fred C. Chandler, plasterer, for injuries incurred in an accident at Millbrae last July 10.

Chandler was washing out a plaster bucket at a Millbrae place when the firm's delivery truck driven by Sunderman ran him down, the complaint states.

Soviet Russia's cotton acreage in 1931-1932 is estimated at 5,824,000 acres, more than double that reported for the previous year.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to thank our many friends, the Native Sons, Menlo Park P. T.-A., St. Joseph's School, St. Joseph's alumni, and the fifth and sixth grade children of the Menlo Park Central School for their very kind words of sympathy and beautiful floral offerings.

SEQUOIA PLAYERS TO STAGE COMEDY

"The Show-Off," a three-act comedy by George Kelly, will be presented Friday evening at 8:15 o'clock in the Sequoia high school auditorium by the Sequoia Players under the direction of Claude A. van Patten.

The leading character is Audrey Piper, the "show-off," played by Hyman Brodowsky. As an authentic and realistic person taken from American life, as a liar, braggart and egotist, Piper is the central figure in the play. The consistency of his faults gives color to the part.

Angeline Pierce as Mrs. Fisher, Betty Sheehan as Clara Fisher and Mary Lou Bell as Amy Fisher, portray the feminine roles. Others in the cast, most of whom took part in last season's productions, "Sun-up" and "The Perfect Alibi," are Orion Hopping, Rudolph Kalenborn, Jack Franklin, Saxon Downs and Henry Kalteren.

In his past stage productions at Sequoia high school, Director van Patten has given to the community plays of more difficult type than are usually undertaken by high school players. Ability of the casts to handle the work was evidenced in the impressive performance of "Sun-up," the mountaineer play, and again in the mystery, "The Perfect Alibi." A still different type is presented in "The Show-Off," one of the best American comedies ever written.

Reserved seats are still on sale at the high school and at the Sequoia Pharmacy for 50 cents and 35 cents. Children will be admitted for 25 cents when accompanied by parents. Tickets will be available at the box office tomorrow evening before the performance.

TWO OLD FRENDS WILL MEET IN SAN FRANCISCO

There will be a happy reunion in San Francisco, tomorrow, when J. W. Coleberd, the widely known attorney of South San Francisco, will meet his boyhood friend, Ralph Bull, president of the Great Northern Railroad Company, who came from St. Paul, Minn., this week to attend the golden spike ceremonies held at Bieber, Cal., last Tuesday.

Both were raised in Des Moines, Iowa, and attended college there. Higher honors were given Bull yesterday, when he was selected president of the Burlington Railroad. As young men both came west.

Wake Up Your Liver Bile —Without Calomel

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

If you feel sour and sunk and the world looks punk, don't swallow a lot of salts, mineral water, oil, laxative candy or chewing gum and expect them to make you suddenly sweet and buoyant and full of sunshine.

For they can't do it. They only move the bowels and a mere movement doesn't get at the cause. The reason for your down-and-out feeling is your liver. It should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily.

If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You have a thick, bad taste and your breath is foul, skin often breaks out in blemishes. Your head aches and you feel down and out. Your whole system is poisoned.

It takes those good old CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." They contain wonderful, harmless, gentle vegetable extracts, amazing when it comes to making the bile flow freely.

But don't ask for liver pills. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Look for the name Carter's Little Liver Pills on the red label. Resent a substitute. 25c at all stores. © 1931, C. M. Co.

Banks Taking Memberships In Red Cross

Memberships in the Red Cross may be secured at the San Mateo County Bank, Bank of America or First National Bank, it was announced today. These three agencies will care for those who are not at home during the day or who are not reached by a Red Cross roll call solicitor.

More than 100 workers began their campaign this morning to secure 2000 members to break all records in Redwood City for the 50th anniversary of the Red Cross organization.

MORE STOP SIGNS ADDED ON HIGHWAY

Three hundred additional stop signs are being erected by the California State Automobile Association on El Camino Real, U. S. 101, for a distance of approximately 79 miles through San Mateo and Santa Clara counties, from Colma on the north to Gilroy on the south. The signs are being placed at locations designated by the State Highway Commission The purpose is to provide further protection to traffic at highway intersections outside of incorporated cities. Roads entering the highway at points selected for the new stop signs are not at present safeguarded either by automatic signals or other warning markers.

Growth in traffic at these points, it is stated, has made it necessary to install the signs as a safety measure. At some of the most hazardous intersections the stop signs will be reflectorized to make them readily visible at night.

The new signs form part of a system of official guiding and warning markers which now represents an investment of more than a million dollars. The Automobile Association, as official road signing agency for this territory has contributed more than two thirds of that sum. Last year the motorists' organization expended $40,000 for maintenance of the sign system.

ROAD REROUTED TO SAVE GIANT MARIPOSA TREE

YOSEMITE, Nov. 12.—To protect the Grizzly Giant, largest and most famous tree in the Mariposa Grove of Big Trees, 700 feet of road approaching the tree is being rerouted. The old road went straight past the giant sequoia, so close that the vehicles were running over some of the roots. The new route will swing around the tree, showing it in much better perspective. The heavy expense of this rather small job is due to the fact that every rock and every root in the new roadbed must be pried up by hand. The national park service refuses to risk jarring the roots of the Grizzly Giant by firing dynamite near it.

GAY ADVENTURERS
BY MILDRED BARBOUR

CHAPTER 62

What To Do Now?

Dr. Mac did not need Constance's words to convince him that she was ill. That would have been apparent to him at a glance. He hurried her to the little pension where he had reserved a room for her, and left her in charge of a maid while he went to find Sheila.

He found her playing tennis with Harry, and, after the experience of the previous night he thought it best not to interrupt the game. He waited in the dim old library until he heard them on the terrace, and then called to Sheila as she went upstairs. She turned and sent him a smile that made him forget Constance and Harry and the anxiety that he felt.

"Is Constance here?" she whispered, as he kissed her, after a quick glance around the hall.

"Yes, she's here, and you must come with me after luncheon to see her. I'm afraid we're in for more trouble, Sheila. She's ill."

Sheila threw herself into an armchair and looked up at him in sheer amazement. "You mean that she can't—that it's impossible for her—" The realization of what Constance's illness meant was dawning upon her.

"Oh, Malcolm," she said tensely, "this is terrible! Why, her father will be here any day, and what will I do then? She just must let me get away immediately."

He shook his head despairingly. "She can't," he said. "I wouldn't be responsible for what might happen, knowing what she has been through. Why, when I left her in London, she seemed almost well. But the anxiety that she suffered when her memory returned and she realized what had happened, together with the excitement of the journey, has brought her again to the verge of collapse. You'll have to play your part for a few more days, Sheila. There's no other way."

"I suppose you're right," she said. "I can't let her down now. But what if her father should come, in the meantime? Why, I'd die of fright."

"Let's not think about that," he said. "He may be delayed again."

"We just can't have that much luck," she said gloomily. "Can you take me to see her soon?"

"Directly after lunch. It may do her a lot of good to see you—may help her pull herself together."

Luncheon at the Baronne's table was never a particularly gay affair, and today it was duller than usual. Sheila was distraught, the Baronne was continuing a lengthy quarrel with Carlo that carried over from the previous night, and Dr. Mac was so worried about Constance that he could think of little to say.

Just as he and Sheila were leaving, an imposing motor swept into the drive. The Baronne, who had been urging them to stay and play whist, deserted them for the newcomer. Sheila saw an elderly woman alight from the car and walk slowly toward the house on her companion's arm.

"Who can that be?" asked Dr. Mac. "She looks like a personage."

"Let's get away before she turns out to be my godmother, or my great aunt," said Sheila, climbing into the roadster. From the corner of her eye she saw the Baronne signal her to stay, and she stepped on the starter and put the car in motion, but she was too late. A servant acme running across the drive. "Will Miss Kerr please wait?" she puffed. "Madame asks it."

Sheila climbed out of the car with a smothered exclamation of impatience. "I knew it," she grumbled. "Go on, Malcolm, and come back later, if you can manage it."

The Baronne and her guest were chatting in the drawing-room when Sheila appeared. Carlo met her at the door and said in an undertone:

"My mother thinks you were unpardonably rude, to try to run away from Mrs. Westley. She wants to know when your mother—"

Sheila had the cue that she wanted, so she dismissed the rebuke with a shrug and greeted Mrs. Westley with charming deference. "Fancy my not knowing you," she laughed. "Of course, I had no idea you were in Cannes."

She waited with some trepidation for the reply. "I hope Mrs. Westley isn't an old resident here," she said to herself. "But she can't be, or I'd have met her before."

"I came only this morning," Mrs. Westley was saying. "After a month in Paris, I need a rest. I knew you were here, of course. I saw your Aunt Sophie at Baden-Baden, and she told me all about you. So I thought I'd call and find out when your mother is expected. I haven't seen her since she was in Rome, last year."

"Mother and father will be here any day," Sheila answered, and groaned inwardly. "They'll be delighted to see you."

"You know," said Mrs. Westley to the Baronne, " a strange thing happened this morning. I saw a girl at the station, when I got in, who looked so much like Constance that I almost spoke to her. But a young man was with her, and he whisked her into a cab before I had a chance."

Sheila tried to look unconcerned. Carlo gave his mother a knowing glance and murmured: "How singular."

"Not singular at all," said Sheila. "Just one of those things."

"Just one of those interesting things," he persisted, while Mrs. Westley chatted with the Baronne. "At least I think so. I wonder if Mr. Edmonds would share my opinion? Or the count?"

"You might ask them," said Sheila carelessly, feeling that indifference was the best course.

"Yes, I might," he said, looking at her coolly.

CHOICE OF ROADS TO SANTA CRUZ, AUTO ASS'N SAYS

Motorists have several excellent routes available for the trip to Santa Cruz, according to the California State Automobile Association. One is to follow pavement from San Francisco either by U. S. 101 or the Bayshore highway to Redwood City, thence continuing over pavement via U. S. 101 to Sunnyvale and then through Saratoga, Los Gatos and Glenwood to Santa Cruz.

Another good route is the Skyline boulevard, which is an oiled road in good condition. At Saratoga gap a right turn is made and oiled road is followed to the San Lorenzo river road, thence through Boulder Creek and Felton to Santa Cruz over oiled and paved surface. There is also an oiled road to Big Basin, continuing south to Boulder Creek and thence to Santa Cruz.

The coast route is an oiled macadam road via Half Moon Bay and San Gregorio to Pescadero and the Santa Cruz county line. Good dirt road and some oiled gravel follows to within one mile of Davenport, whence pavement is continuous to Santa Cruz. The coast road is a winding one and should be driven carefully.

GOVERNOR URGES RED CROSS HELP

Gov. James Rolph, Jr., Monday called upon all Californians to support the annual membership Roll Call of the American Red Cross which opened in thousands of communities in the United States on Armistice Day. The governor's proclamation, in part, follows:

"The American Red Cross is conducting its annual enrollment of members, and I deem it a privilege and a pleasure to call to the attention of my fellow Californians the worthy and unparalleled humanitarian work of this great organization.

"I urge all Californians to aid in this cause which has for its purpose the relief of human misery."

'SHOW-OFF,' BEST AMERICAN COMEDY, HAS STRONG CAST

George Kelly's highly amusing play, "The Show-Off," said by Heywood Broun, New York critic, to be the best comedy which has yet been written by an American, is ready for presentation this evening in the Sequoia high school auditorium after two months of preparation by an experienced cast of high school players under the direction of Claude van Patten

Hyman Brodowsky takes the title role of Audrey Piper, a cocksure and gabby young man who is said to be the best observed of all Kelly characters. "Contemptible and pitiful, intolerable yet begetting a grudging affection, he is one of the finest character creations of the modern American theatre," says Carl Carmer of the chief character of "The Show-Off" in Theatre Arts Magazine.

Mary Lou Bell plays the part of Amy Fisher, an independent young woman who maintains her right to marry whom and when she pleases, and Audrey Piper is the man of her choice.

Angeline Pierce as Mrs. Fisher, the forceful and fluent mother, and Betty Sheehan as Clara Fisher, the sister, are other experienced players taking leading parts in Sequoia's first dramatic production of the year.

Others in the cast are Orion Hopping, as Pa Fisher; Rudolph Kalenborn, as Joe Fisher; Jack Franklin, as Jack Hyland; Saxon Downs, as Mr. Gill, and Henry Kalteren, as Mr. Rogers.

The witty and realistic Kelly play was prepared for presentation on October 31 but was postponed because of a conflicting production on that date, so that the cast has had ample time in which to bring out the possibilities of the comedy to the fullest extent.

The setting, a modern Philadelphia apartment, has been created by the stagecraft group of the high school under the supervision of J. Edwin Spence.

Reserved seats are on sale at the high school and at the Sequoia Pharmacy for 50 cents and 35 cents each. Reserved seats for children accompanied by parents cost 25 cents each.

DESERTION CHARGED

Mrs. Ann Cotherman today has on file a complaint for divorce against Frank Cotherman with County Clerk Elmore B. Hinman. They were married in Newark, N. J., February 14, 1918, and separated on September 28, 1928, when he is alleged to have deserted. K. R. McDougall of Palo Alto is her counsel.

HIJACKER

up the chase. They overhauled the fleeing auto and covered it with their guns. The driver signaled as if he would stop, but then suddenly swerved in an attempt to double back down the highway.

The hijackers' machine, however, failed to complete the turn, rolled over three times and crashed into a hydrant at the intersection of Lincoln avenue and the highway. The two officers stopped as quickly as possible, but the driver of the car fled through a vacant lot before they could get back to the smashed machine. One shot was fired at him as he escaped in the dark.

Griffith, the wounded hijacker, was caught at the car and taken immediately to the Mills hospital.

Griffith was advised by both the doctors and the police that he had no chance to live, but he steadfastly refused to talk. "Give me a gun," he said, "and let me blow my brains out."

Eight feet of Griffith's intestines have been removed and he was given a fair chance to recover today.

Oakland police today raided a place at 1505 Market street, Oakland, and arrested three men, a woman and a 15-year-old boy suspected of being connected with the hijacking gang. The address was found in the wrecked coupe under the name, Henry Owen, as was also a temporary driver's license issued to Joe Teresi, 1854 Lincoln boulevard, Santa Monica. Teresi was declared to have been at the Oakland address last night, and police believe that it was he who escaped when the car was wrecked.

The Packard was found by Burlingame police today to have been registered to Sarah McCorbett of Route 1, Santa Ana. It is being held at a Burlingame garage.

An Associated Press dispatch from San Francisco says that the gangsters' victim, Deputy Sheriff McAuley, was at one time a member of the San Francisco police force and was decorated for his bravery in capturing a band of seven robbers.

Benefit Football Contest To Help Unemployed

Gridiron heroes of Sequoia and Bellarmine will smash the line Saturday to help Redwood City's unemployment relief fund now being raised by the mayor's committee.

Five thousand tickets, to cost 50 cents each, have been printed, and an army of men and women will call at every home to sell them. Tickets have also been left at various stores where merchants have agreed to sell as many as possible. Only one firm declined to take tickets.

The sale of the benefit football game tickets "must not in any manner interfere with the Red Cross Roll Call now about to start in Redwood City," the mayor's committee emphasizes.

Bellarmine eleven, coached by Herm Mettler, former Sequoia star, has whipped all private schools it has played this season, and Sequoia is in the running for the Peninsula league championship. The game starts at 2 o'clock on the local turf.
